DESCRIPTION:

BEC2022, the 18th Biennial Conference on Electronics and Embedded Systems will be held in Tallinn, Estonia on October 4–6, 2022. This year our conference is dedicated to. The 60's anniversary of Thomas Johann Seebeck Department of Electronics (TJS ELIN) at the Tallinn University of Technology. The TJS ELIN has been grounded in 1962 as one the fourth departments of the faculty Automatics (today School of IT).

Tallinn University of Technology has been hosted the Baltic Electronics Conferences since 1987. The conferences have taken place regularly and in every second year. Since March 23, 2006, we are an officially IEEE-supported conference.

The aim of the Conference is to promote research and development in the field of electronics and embedded systems, particularly in the Baltic Sea region.

Historically, Tallinn, the capital of Estonia, is unique in terms of its medieval Old Town, characterized by narrow, curved streets and tiled roofs. First records about Tallinn date back to the beginning of the last millennium. During its long and eventful history, Tallinn has been a remarkable centre of craftsmen, artists and merchants in Europe, belonging to the Hanseatic League.

THE SCOPE OF THE BEC2022 IS:

"Smart technologies and services" is a very wide-ranging multidisciplinary research, development, and application field of rapid growth and expansion. The conference BEC2022 will provide an opportunity to come together and discuss ones' recent research work in defined topics of the field at an international forum in Tallinn, Estonia.

TOPICS:

1. Communication and Cognitive Systems
2. Cyberphysical and Embedded Systems
3. Electronic Devices and Power Conversion Technologies
4. Instrumentation and Signal Processing
